Hexol[®] continues its economic growth throughout the first quarter of 2017

Lubricant producer, Hexol[®], continues its growth pattern through 2017, showing a strong year-over-year growth from Q1 last year.

On the domestic market the company saw a sales increase of 6,7% while export markets advanced by 24,8% in comparison to this period last year.

Looking at the bigger picture, Q1 2017 registered a 12,9% growth in sales in comparison to Q1 2016, reaching 764.000 L sold over the course of this year's first three months.

"It's remarkable that within these first three months of the year we have seen both a rise in sales and profitability in comparison to Q1 last year, exceeding the 100.000 Lei threshold." - company president, Daniel Condratov.

In the following period we'll communicate Hexol[®]'s continued efforts and agenda to expand into new territories. Our approach to reach these new markets will include launching and producing new packaging and improved product specifications, aligned with the current needs of the automotive and industrial market today.
